

Inspire confidence through effective control of hazards with

ISO 22000

FOOD SAFETY MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS

ISO 22000 provides a layer of reassurance within the global food supply chain, facilitating the push of products across borders and bringing people quality that they can trust.

It is of utmost importance that the food we eat reaches us safely, and continues to be safe at the time of consumption. The challenges of ensuring this falls on all organisations operating in the food chain, regardless of its role, size, complexity, or whether its involvement is direct or indirect.

This standard is of value and applicable, but not limited to, feed producers, animal food producers, harvesters of wild plants and animals, farmers, producers of ingredients, food manufacturers, retailers, providers of food and catering services, cleaning and sanitation services, transportation services, storage and distribution services, suppliers of equipment, cleaning and disinfectants, packaging materials and other food contact materials.

ISO 22000 contributes to the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), specifically:

Goal 2: Zero Hunger

Goal 3: Good Health & Well-Being

Goal 12: Responsible Consumption & Production

An effective Food Safety Management System will:

- Increase the ability to control food safety hazards to ensure that food is safe at the time of human consumption
- Reduce food safety related incidents, thereby reducing operating costs
- Demonstrate commitment and ensure compliance with applicable statutory and regulatory requirements
- including the Food Act 1983 (Act 281), Food Regulations 1985 and other requirements in food safety and handling
- Increase organisational efficiency, effectiveness and profitability through continual process improvements
- Enhance corporate image and branding and improve access to global markets
